ALWAYS THE SAFE CHOICE!

From domestic handicraft to modern industrial production.

A rich history of manufacturing

The history of padlock manufacture in Westphalian Wetter-Volmarstein can be traced back to the year 1750. "Lock making" was a traditional craft and home to numerous families. Even at the turn of the 20th century there were countless small family businesses in Volmarstein where locks were made.

With the start of the industrialisation, introduction of large factories extended the distribution of their products to international markets.

The reputation of Wetter-Volmarstein, "lock-town" then spread around the world.

The castle as a security brand since 1920.

For many decades, clients from all over the world associated the brand BURG-WÄCHTER with quality products "Made in Germany".

The name is referred to the town's landmark, the castle of Volmarstein. Today, its ruin can be seen from a long distance in the river Ruhr valley.

It represents both our company as well as our products, because – there is no more accurate synonym for safety.

Today BURG-WÄCHTER uses highly modern industrial production methods, but has preserved the care of traditional craftsmanship.

Our programme is amplified and enriched by further production facilities in Romania and China as well as international co-operation partners.

Here we assume our responsibility to influence the globalisation in a positive way by offering good workplace conditions and fair wages.
